The Northwoods loom large in the American imagination. They encompass six national forests, nine national parks, and the North Country National Scenic Trail, which threads the region from Michigan to Minnesota. Over 60 million US residents are within a day’s drive (450 miles) of experiencing the popular recreation lands of the Northwoods.